Mr. S. Street the proprietor of the Toll Bridge across Neuse river, 10 miles north of Newbern, informed the Editor, that on Saturday night last at about eleven o'clock, the Mail Carrier within a short distance of his house, met a su picious person in female att re, riding at a rapid rate, with a bag and pair of saddle bags attached to the saddle coming in the direction of this town. Mr. S. is of opinion that this strange personage is no other than the Pennsylve. nia murderer, who, but a few days since pu' an end to the life of his wife and the wife of his neighbor. The toll gate being thosed and locked, at once may account for which he probably kept no longer, than some less public road to the south, (void of toll gates), presented itself to his view. It was also said, that he was mounted on a large good looking horse, whose colour by star- light, appeared to be dark bay.

The Russian Emperor by his minister at Washington has set up a claim, to a considerable extent of territory on the North West Coast, which had been conveyed to us by the Spanish treaty. His Imperial Majesty claims it by the right of discovery and pessession-it remains to be seen with how much justice. FOR THE RECORDER. Heu! quam difficilis gloria custodia est.

I have recently met with the following p agraph taken from the "Whig," wappener once printed at Baltimore and o hed by Baptiste Irvine, a man well nown in the political world. In non casioned the remarks of Mr. Irvine-the to the decision of some friendly power. one would be alike insensible to mortal praise or censure, and few would willingly drag the other from his obscurity. I have higher views. My object is to furnish this additional testimony to the instability of all earthly fame or glory, in the pursuit of which, so many regardless of the imperishable glory beyond the tomb, has and their reputations and their lives.

We understand that the machine constructing at the Navy Yard, for the purpose of hauling up ship: of war, for preservation or repair will be completed by the first of May, and that he frigate Poromac, lately launched, will be hauled up on the 2d or 3d. [The precise day and hour will be hereafter stated.] This machine, we are informed, would have been completed much sooner, had not the prevalence of unusually high tides, for the last fortnights retarded the operations of the workmen.

Expectation is on tiptoe for the result of his experiment, in which we are to behold the novel and stupendous sight of a ship. of the largest class of frigates, taken from her natural element, suspended in the air, and afterwards deposited on blocks, in a situation similar to that in which a ship is placed when building.

It is supposed the whole of this operation may be completed within three hours -in which space of time this mass of tim ber, weighing sixteen hundred tons, will have been moved six hundred feet .- Ib.

Mr. Middleton, our minister in Russia, has transmitted a Memoir on Hpdrophobia, to Dr. Mitchell, written by Dr. Maro. chetti, a Russian physican, and given at length in the New York Commercial Advertiser, by which the indications of this terrible disease are pointed out, and the cure made known. He states, that the appearance of tumours of unequal size appearing under the tongue, always and uniformly mark the existence of hydrophobic virus, which can easily be ascertained by the touch. When any one is bitten by a dog, it is recommended that he should subject his tongue to examination for six weeks and if no tumours then appear, it may safely be concluded that no poison has been communicated by the bite. But if during any part of this period, tumours should show themselves, the Docter recommends that they should be instantly cauterized, or opened, by a sharp lancet. A greenish matter will proceed from these incisions, which the patient is directed to pit out, and then wash his mouth with a strong decocion of the tops and flowers of the Fenista lateo tinctoria [vellow broom] The virus is thus destroyed in its germ; and details of numerous cases are given where this trestment has been attended with the happiest re-ali-

It appears that the discovery was made in Russia, as early as 1813 Of 15 persons who were bitten by a mad dog, 14 were treated in the manner suggested above, by a peasant, who trad sequired much reputa tion for his skill. The other was treated in the ordinary manner. The latter died, lay to the usual number of officers, and all the others recovered. Doctor Marochetti visited them three years after, the police made great efforts to restore of and they were all doing well.-Similar der, but all in vain. The Mayor and ti success attended this gentleman's treat officers were driven from the scene of so ment of 26 persons who had been bitten ion to Spruce street : orders were no Sir. -1 by mad dogs.

The statement of M. Marochetti is corroborated by a letter from a s gentleman led. in New Jersey to Dr. Mitchell, which gives a curious and authentic account of the cure of two mad dogs, by opening the tumours under their tongues.

The hird class is a formidable mass of ignorance and bigotry, diffused through the whole south of Ireland. It consists of persons who have withstood every attempt to introduce scriptual knowledge-and who blindly follow a few fanaical leaders, incited, like themselves, by artful predictions of the everthrow of our Protes ant Church and Constitution. Simi lar publications were circulated many years ago, and one such in the year 1817, fore elling the extirpation of Protestants to ake place on the following year-a copy of which was sent by our Mr. M. Cummins to Mr. Vansittort, for the purpose of being communicated to Government. It is remarkable, that these infamated devotees to Popery have not been undeceived by the notorious falsification of the prophecies formerly employed for their delusion -and that they are this day quite con filent that the Protestant name is on the eve of its final extinction. The Prelates and upper Clergy of the Romish Church holds these things in utter contempt-and are sufficiently acute to see their best security in a steady adherance to the government, and maintenance of strict subordination; they do not shut their eyes to the fallen condition of their Spanish brethren. 17 h February. W. L. LAVENDER. it County, March 1, 1822—6.848 To following satrical Ode, extracted from the Mobile Gazette, furnishes a happy commen upon the mania of town manu. facturing, lately so prevalent in the South and West.

AN ODE. Wherein the Lyric Bard warneth his fel low ci izens of the dangers of commerce and agriculture, and pointeth out a shor and sure road to wealth.

Merchant! I think it time to stop When every house becomes a shop, For Groceries or Bry Goods; If all men undertake to sell, It's somewhat difficult to tell Who can be found to buy goods.

Our Plan'ers too, I'm much afraid, Will find their labor poorly paid, When they depend on cotton; It grows luxurian ly. I grant. But what avails this thriving plant, If every bowl proves rotten.

Let such as feel a proper pride, Set those ignoble trades aside; For he's beneath one's pity, Wer puts up with the more Or meanly stops to grub the soil, When he can own a city.

What own a city! you'll exclaim -Yes, own the shot, that's just the same, On which the place must stand; For if on maps, it's once laid down, It's just as genuine a town, As any in the land.

Town Making now, is quite a trade, Of which the rules are ready made, For these who stand in need: Thus when a sea-port is intended, If these ingredients be bleuded. It cannot but succeed.

First choose an elevated bluff, Just where the river's deep enough. For ships of largest mould; (If there should be a bar below O'er which these vessels cannot go, The fact need not be told.)

You next must find a limpid thing, For this is an important thing, And answers vastly well To leng hen out the wond'rous tale. And aid, when other reasons fail, To make the city sell.

The most important point, perhaps, Lies in the drawing of the maps; The painter there must try. By mingling yellow, red and green, To make the most delightful scene. That ever met the eye.

The site itself must not be known, That no descrip ion but your own May shine forth in the papers; You then may raise an eastern breeze, Or any other wind you please, To drive off noxious vapers.

Of this obscure spot you may swear There never was a purer air, And if vou're not believed, At least you cannot be belied, For none can prove that men have died, Where no men ever lived.

This puffing must not be omitted. For where you'll find one man's that's fitted To think and act alone; You'll find a thousand timid fools, Just formed, 't would seem to be his tools And do as he has done.

'Tie when the rage is at its height, The knowing ones will quit he site, While those that s op behind, Of his desertion can', complain, For what they lose in wealth they gain In knotedge of mankind.

FROM CHALMERS' DISCOURSES. PRUDENCE IN THE DEFENCE OF IMPORTANT DOCTRINES.

"While we assert with zeal every doctrine of Christianity, let us not lorget that there is a zeal without discrimination; and that, to bring such a spirit to the defence of our fai h, or of any one of its peculiarities, is not to vindicate the cause, but to discredit it. Now, there is a way of maintaining the utter depravity of our nature, and of doing it in such a style of tion. It is not by an utterance of rash and sweeping and of vehement assertion, as to render it not merely obnoxious to the taste, but obnoxious to the understanding. Oa this subject there is often a roundness and a temerity of announcement, which any intelligent man, looking at the phenomena of human character with his own eyes, cannot go along with; and thus it is, that there are judicious defenders of orthodoxy, who have mustered against it not merely a positive dislike, but a positive strength of observation and argument. Let the na- made me to rule over me. The eye over 2, and the man are certain phrases, and certain exhibi tions of this nature, which are more lovel than others-certain traits of character, not due to the operation of Christianity's all, and yet calling forth our admiration itons, and, while we gaze in tenderness up. and our tenderness-certain varieties of jon him-it is to read to him, out of his own moral complexion, far more fair and more | character, how the exquirite mechanism of engaging than certain others varieties : and to prove that the gospel may have had | who framed it is forgotten; while he who no share in the formation of them, they in fact stood out to the notice and respect of the world before the gospel was ever heard with one single sentiment of veneration, of. The classic page of antiquity sparkles with repeated exemplifications of what is bright and beautiful in the character of man ; por do all its descriptions of external nature waken up such an enthusiasm of pleasure, as when it bears testimony to some graceful or elevated doing out of the history of the species. And whether it be word, it is to go round among all that the kindliness of maternal affection, or the unweariedness of filial picty, or the constancy of tried and unalterable fr endship, or the earnestness of devoted patriotism, that Being who has done so much to beau or the rigour of unbending fidelity, or any tify and to exalt her. It is to prove that other of the recorded virtues, which shed a the carnal mind, under all its varied comglory over the remembrance of Greece plexions of harshness, or of delicacy, is en. and of Rome-we fully concede it to the mity against God. It is to prove that, let admiring scholar, that they one and all of nature be as rich as she may in moral acthem were sometimes exemplified in those complishments, and let the most favoured days of Heathenism; and that out of the of her sons realize upon his own person materials of a period, crowded as it was with moral abominations, there my also be gathered things which are pule, and lovely, and true, and just, and honest, and of good report.

" What do we mean then, it way be. asked, by the universal depravity of man? How shall we reconcile the admission now made, with the unqualified and authori ive language of the Bible, when it tells us e! the totality and the magnitude of human corruption? Wherein lies that desperate wickedness, which is every where ascribed to all the men of all the families that be on the face of the earth ! And now can such a tribute of acknowledgement be awarded to the sages and the patriots of antiquity who yet, as the partakers of our fallen nature, must be outcast from the favour of God, and have the character of evil stamp ed upon the imaginations of the thoughts of their hearts continually !

" In reply to these questions, let us speal to your own experimental recollections ou a subject in which you are aided, both by the consciousness of what passes within you, and by your observation of the character of others. Might not a sense of ho nour elevate the neart which is totally infornished with a sense of God? Might not an impulse of compassionale feeling be sent into that bosom which is never once visited by a movement of duteous loyalty owards the Lawgiver in Heaven? Mich not occasions of intercourse with the being around us, develope whatever there is in our nature of generosity, and friendship, and integrity, and patriotism; and yet the unseen Being, who placed us in this theatre, be neither loved nor obeyed, nor listened to? Amid the manifold varieties of human character, and the number of constitutional principles which en er into its composition, migh there not be an individual in whom the constitutional virtues so blaze forth and have the ascendency, as to give a general effect of gracefulness to the whole of this moral exhibition; and vet, may not that individual be as unmind fel of his God, as if the principles of his Sortiution had been mixed up in such a different proportion is to make him an odious and a revolving spectacle? In a word, might not Sensibility shed forth its cears, and Friendship perform its services. and Liberality impart of its treasure, and Patriotism earn the gratitude of its country, and Honour remain itself entire and untainted, and all the softenings of what is amiable, and all the glories of what is chivalrous and manly, gather into one bright effulgency of moral accompli hment on the person of him who never, for a single day of his life, subordinate one habit, or one affection, to the will of the Almighty; who is just as careless and as unconcerned about God. as if the native tenden. cies of his constitution had compounded him into a monster of deformity; and who just as effectually real zes this attribute of rebellion against his Maker, as the most loathsome and profligare of the species,

ARMS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Although the Study of Heraldry may not be very amusing to our Republican readers, yet, as the eagle with extended wings, grasping the arms of war and olive of peace, is constantly presented to our eyes, in some way or other, it may not be uninterest ng to give a history and an explanation of the arms of our country.

In June 1782, when Congress was abou to form an amorial device for a seal of the Union, Charles Thom on, Esq. the then Secretary, with the Hon. Dr. Arthur Lee and E. Boudinot, members of Congress. called on Mr. William Barton, and con sulted him on the occasion. The great seal for which Mr. Barton furnished these if the American press be despicable, the Congress on the 29th of June, 1782. The advice is as follows:

Arms .- Paleway of thirteen pieces argent, gules, a chief azure ; the escutcheor on the breast of the American Eagle, displayed proper, holding in his dexier talon an olive branch, and in his sinister a branch of th ricen a rows, all proper; and in his beak a scroll, with the motto, " E filu-ibus unum " The Breast-Over the head of the East ele, which appears over the escutcheon, a glory, or breaking through a cloud proper and surrounding stars, forming a constel-tation, argent on an azure field. Reverse-A pyramid unfinished. In the zenith an eye in a triangle, surounded with a glory. Over the eye these words, " Annuits coepsis." Remarks and explanations-The escutcheon is composed of the chief pale, the two most honorable ordinaries. The thirteen pieces pale represent the several states of he Union, all joined in one solid compact entire, supporting a chief which unites the whole and represents Congress. The notio alludes to the Union. The pales in the a ms are kept closely united by the chief, and the chief depends on that Union, and the strength resulting from it, for its support, to denote the confederacy of the States, and the preservation of the Union, through Congress.

The colors of the pale are those used in the flag of the United States of America. White signifies purity and innocence : red. hardiness and valor; and blue, the color of the chief, signifies vigilance, perseverance that he walks in the counsel of his own and justice. The olive branch and arrows heart, and after the sight of his own eyes? | denote the power of peace and, which is

Mr. Campbell the Editor of the New London Monthly Magazine, in his number for December last, has entered prest warmly into a defence of the America character. He says, " he has no desire he excuse himself for one article, which he given offence, rather too justly onth other side of the Atlantic.
